Cornelia's Philadelphia

8th and Filbert, NW corner - Cornelia was born here and lived here from 1809 to 1810. It was a house for 10 occupants.

10th below Market St. Stephen's Episcopal Church - Cornelia was baptized here on February 25, 1831. Montgomery, Duval names, Cornelia's portrait.

10th and Sansom - Cornelia lived here from 1813 to 1819; her father died in 1819.

151 N. 9th - Cornelia lived here from 1819 to 1823; her mother died in 1823.

7th and Market - House where Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence.

5th and Arch - Christ Church Burial Grounds - Isabella Montgomery, Cornelia's half sister, is buried here.

Arch between 2nd and 3rd - Betsy Ross House - A typical widow's house like 151 N. 9th where Cornelia lived from 1819-1823.

2nd above Arch - Elfreth's Alley - Oldest continuously occupied street in America with 33 houses built between 1713 and 1811 and preserved as they were in Cornelia's time.

2nd between Arch and Market - Christ Church - Cornelia's parents were married here and Cornelia's marriage is recorded here even though she was married in her sister, Adline Duval's house at 13th and Chestnut.

2nd above Walnut - City Tavern - opened in 1773. In 1774, members of the First Continental Congress used it as a gathering place. In 1787, the Constitutional Convention held its closing banquet here. John Adams once called it the most genteel tavern in America.

Walnut between 3rd and 4th - Bishop White's House - Bishop White married Cornelia's parents in November, 1789. He also married Cornelia and Pierce. President Washington dined here and the bishop lived here with his wife, 5 children, a cook and a coachman. In 1826, 11 grandchildren also lived here. In 1827 his granddaughter, Mary White married Rev. James Montgomery of St. Stephen's Church.

Walnut between 10th and 11th - Cornelia lived here with Isabella and Austin Montgomery from 1823 to 1831.